Official Agricultural Advisory Committee Named

The Agricultural Advisory Committee recently appointed by the Belle Glade city commission held its organization meeting Monday night at the city hall and named Robert C. Lee, Chairman and Warren Battle, Vice-Chairman.

Members of the committee are Lee, personnel and public relations director for Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative, Battle, farm manager for A. Duda & Sons; Lamar Hillier, of Fritz Stein Farms; Alton Long, Duda Farms; Cecil Meade, Chamberlains Farms; Horace Harris, Wedgworth Farms; and Irvin Zump, Billy Rogers Farms.

The purpose of the committee as outlined in a resolution passed by the city commission on October 10, 1966 has as its primary function "to consider matters relating to problems particularly affecting the relationship between agriculture and the city of Belle Glade. The committee's recommendations will be reduced to writing and delivered to the commission.

Formal appointment of the committee is only a phase of the continuing effort of the city commission to function in harmony with the agricultural community surrounding Belle Glade. Since the early days of the city when a leading farmer, Arthur Wells, was mayor, the city fathers have worked closely with the farmers.

In September of 1950, the city established a central area

Activities at The Herald held little interest for young Troy Tyler who visited the office with his mother on Monday. The little fellow, without hesitation, climbed into a chair and was soon fast asleep. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tyler, 143 N. E. 4th Street.

Sugar Cane Harvester Being Demonstrated In The Glades

In a six hour period last Sunday, December 4, a mechanical cane harvester operating in the Glades cut 17 acres of sugar cane for a total harvest of 476 tons. On this basis, according to Ronald Hawkins, Florida Division manager for J. L. Engineering Company, builders of the harvester, a total harvesting cost was $42.00, or equivalent of approximately 10 cents a ton.

The test run with this particular specially modified S-4000 Bluebird Cane Harvester was made on King's Ranch, located approximately at twenty mile bend on the West Palm Beach highway, while cutting on 28-100-per-acre cane owned by Sucre Growers, Inc., a member of Atlantic Sugar Association Cooperative. The overseer examining the harvesting operation was Mr. Doug Stephens.

Half-Way Mark Reached On Fund Drive

The new Library Furnishings Fund Drive needed the halfway mark this week, Mrs. J. A. Winchester, drive chairman reported, with collections totaling over $12,000.

Additional donors of $50.00 or more who contributed during the past week include Army Surplus Store, Agricultural Insecticide Co., Inc., both of Belle Glade, J. E. Wilson & Son, Inc., of Pahokee; Sheshen's Cleaning Clinic, West Palm Beach; and Mrs. and Mrs. E. B. McDaniel, Belle Glade.

Furnishings for the new library which is scheduled to be completed and ready for occupancy by March of 1967 are anticipated to cost about $25,000.

Working with Mrs. Winchester on the Fund Drive committee are Mrs. F. C. Dooley, Mrs. E. B. McDaniel, Mrs. Edmund Roberts, Mrs. W. A. Thibault, Mrs. Marvin Unwin, Mrs. William B. Rhodes, and Mrs. S. N. Knight Sr.

Last Rites Today For Canal Victim

Funeral services for James Howard, Jr., 29, of 271 W. 4th St., Pahokee, who drowned last Friday night, when the sugar company tractor-trailer he was driving plunged into the Ocean Canal, 17 miles east of Belle Glade, will be at New Hope Baptist Church, at 10:30 a. m. (Thursday) at 2:30 p. m.

Search for the victim, who was an employee of Atlantic Sugar Company, began Friday night when a truck driver who crossed the private-owned bridge immediately ahead, saw the headlights of Howard's truck disappear and ran back to investigate. When an unidentified motorist told him the driver failed to escape, Webb drove to the canal but was unable to locate the truck cab.

Det. Frank Fogelman and Patrolman Johnny Rutledge, members of the Belle Glade Police Department scuba diving team, searched for the victim's body for about two hours Friday night. Deputy Sheriff George Buttle, who was in charge of the investigation, called off the search at about 10 p. m.

Search was resumed early Saturday morning when Florida Highway Patrolman Art Larnce, deputy sheriff's sugar company personnel, along with

The machine was operated by Mr. Jerome Migues from the J. L. Engineering Co., Inc., Jeanerette, Louisiana.

As a bonus, according to Mr. Hawkins, the new S-4000 harvester piles 8 cut rows on one in lieu of the normal hand cutting pile of 4 cut rows on one. This feature speeds up the R-1000 continuous loader and field wagons approximately 100 per cent.

This particular machine is now being demonstrated for the various sugar mills through out the Glades area.

Average hand cutting cost in the Glades is $1.50 per ton vs. 10c with mechanical cutting. One machine replaced 77 hand cutters, Hawkins said.

This is but one of several mechanical harvesters being developed in the Glades.

Many Visitors Are "Finding" The Glades

Increased traffic is well down the road of summertime with farming and harvesting activities underway in the Glades.

Friends on the east coast are more and more "discovering" Glades activities and are visiting in droves. The past week brought nearly one hundred visitors from other communities and states when over fifty members of the Lake Wales Council of Churches, interested in migrant labor, and here to visit the week end center, also were taken on a tour of the sugar mill last Friday by Ben Hylton, director of the Okaloosa Center Nursery.

Some 25 Alpha Omega Chapter members of the Delta Kappa Gamma Honor society visited the packing house cooperative of Florida on Saturday.

Mrs. R. E. Hotard who is a member of the society welcomed visitors to her home prior to a luncheon at noon held at the Holiday Inn.

USDA engineers helped swell the ranks with a two day tour of the area last weekend when they visited local packing houses, farms and sugar mills.

Expected to pay a visit here soon are members of the Pennsylvania Gold Club of Boca Raton who are planning a visit to the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida mill, according to County Commissioner E. W. Weaver. The club is made up of 100 members, according to Weaver, who said he hopes this group, too, will visit farms and packing houses as well.

Glades vegetables on the menu for visitors, plus Lake Okeshochee cutters are proving a delight for many who have previously known little about this vast agricultural area.

New Post Office For South Bay Announced By Cong. Rogers

The news of a new Post Office for South Bay was released by Congressman Paul G. Rogers from his office in West Palm Beach. In a telephone conversation with Acting Postmaster Thomas A. Williams he said that he had approval from the Post Office Department for the new facilities and the next step would be for the Department's Real Estate Manager to come and approve the site available.

The new building will have 2,500 square feet of floor space with a 80 square foot loading platform. The present building, which has housed the mail facilities for the past 34 years, has a floor space of 720 square feet.

With the completion of the new building South Bay will join the many communities throughout the states with modern postal facilities. Included in the plans are enough postal boxes so that every patron who desires one will have it available. The building will also be air-conditioned and with ample parking for patrons.

Congressman Rogers said he was very happy to get this action for the residents of South Bay because with the completion of the new building they will be able to get improved postal service at home, as many residents are now getting their mail in the surrounding communities due to not being able to acquire a postal box in South Bay.

Willie Edward Grooms, 22, an employee of the James W. Chase Cane Company, 1001 West Canal Street suffered a broken leg when a load of crates fell on his left leg.

The accident occurred when Grooms was pulling one flat bed semi to another. As he went up on the ramp, his feet flew out from under him, according to reports.

He was rushed to Glades General Hospital by a Belle Glade Fire Department ambulance in response to a call received at 8:55 a. m.

"It is encouraging and helpful to have farmers so actively interested in our efforts," said one of the engineers "and it is very rewarding to see our discoveries put to immediate use when we come up with a workable idea, he continued.

All PBC Senior High Schools Accredited

The 1966 Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' report on the accreditation status of Florida's senior high schools shows that in the entire state, 312 senior high schools are fully accredited; 212 have been "dropped" from the accredited rolls this year.

28 because of major deficiencies, and four have been "phased out."

48 have received the coveted "clear" from any deficiencies category.

its 10th grade has been omitted and its total student membership for October for the remaining 11th and 12th grades was down to only 59. It has not been determined as yet when this school will be phased out.

Last year, Jupiter High School was given a "clear" report, but this year some overcrowding has occurred due to the population growth in its general area. It is also suffering from the same complaint noted in several other high schools — some teachers instructing out-of-field.

An architect is already at work preparing plans for an addition to Jupiter High School. The same is true at Lake Worth and Riviera Beach Senior High Schools and the new School Board will make the decision on when to fund these additions from the 1964 bond issue, sometime after it takes effect on January 3.

Lake Shore High's problem is especially concerned with its inability to secure qualified permanent teachers, and is using eight substitute teachers.

This year, we again have two schools on the warning list — East Lake and Lake Shore, of Belle Glade.

The problem with existed at Forest Hill High last year, which included overcrowding, has been overcome thanks to the approximately $175,000 expansion to the school during the past 12 months, and the relief accorded it as a result of the opening of the big new Junior-Senior High School, John I. Leonard, southwest of Forest Hill High. Both construction jobs were paid with funds realized from the 1964 bond issue which is being amortized by Palm Beach County millage taxes.

Last year, East Lake High's annual average student membership for grades 10, 11 and 12 totaled only 114. This year,

Lake Shore Platoon Assembled Readily For 4-hour Nat'l Drill

Within 30 minutes after the State-Wide Test Alert for all Florida Army National Guardsmen was called at 6:15 last Thursday night, about half of Shore Platoon 1043rd Transportation Company Terminal Service with headquarters in Belle Glade, were at the post for drill. Within an hour 90% of the members had reported, according to Platoon Sgt. Perry Righton.

The statewide alert, called by Major General Henry W. McMillan, was relayed here by Capt. Newton Beaver, company commander of Miami to 1st Lt. Edward E. Randall and on to Sgt. Righton, who notified the area leaders in Pahokee, Clewiston, and West Palm Beach.

Upon arrival at the army, guardsmen were quickly issued arms and combat equipment, participated in loading of unit vehicles with organizational equipment such as unit kitchen, and prepared to move to the field to assembly areas.

The speed with which personnel assembled and units were made ready to move out throughout the state, was made possible by the carefully prepared and rehearsed Alert Plans which are developed by all units as part of their National Guard Mission to State and Federal Governments.

Members of the Staff of the Adjutant General at St. Augustine, and of the 55th Command Headquarters, Divisional at Jacksonville, followed the progress of the Alert closely by means of telephone and State-Wide Radio Emergency Net.

A master radio control station in the Military Department Headquarters collected the progress reports from all sections of the State.

General McMillan said that the test was generally successful. Some deficiencies were not ed, however, during the exercise, which will be analyzed and corrected.

Such platoon alerts, "are an effective means of evaluating the ability of the Florida Army National Guard to mobilize quickly to cope with any emergency affecting our State or Nation. From that experience gained in the conduct of these test alerts, Commanders at all levels of Command are assisted in their endeavor to improve their emergency planning to the highest degree possible."

The 1043rd Shore Platoon is comprised of the Glades area from Moore Haven to Okeechobee and east including West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Rosa V. Calhoun Honored Sunday With An Appreciation Tea

"Mrs. Calhoun was overwhelmed with gratitude and joy as she witnessed the expressions and demonstrations."

Mrs. Rosa V. (Mother) Calhoun, a resident of Belle Glade, was honored Sunday with an appreciation tea held in the dining area of St. John Baptist Church, Sunday afternoon December 4, at 3 o'clock.

Americans" is the title of the 18-page booklet. It was prepared in cooperation with the President's Council on Aging.

This guide is of special importance to retired persons living on a fixed income, according to Dr. C. C. Moxley, economist, with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

Included in the guide is a simplified explanation of how the provisions of the Federal income tax law apply to older Americans. Tax-saving information discussed in this booklet includes an explanation of benefits for a surviving spouse and head of a household, added exemptions for age and blindness, and the amount of tax credit allowed for retirement income.

Three tax bill changes which became effective in 1964 are explained as they apply to senior citizens. The changes include: the minimum standard deduction and how it may reduce tax liability; medical expenses as fully deductible for taxpayers 65 years or older; and revision of the income tax requirement on the sale of a personal residence.

Thought of the Week

I know of no evil to great as the abuse of understanding, and yet there is no one vice more common.—Steele

The Human Element, Still

It seems such a short time ago—a few brief years—that it was understood without saying that "a lady" knew little if anything about mechanics. It was understandable that the little woman might try her hand at driving a car, but the inner workings?—no, tut...tut...kept her lady-like status by learning nothing about them.

In today's society complicated robots are part of the everyday thinking of the young...they take them as much for granted as we did Uncle Henry...and learning begins when a child, boy or girl, is old enough to sit in front of a TV.

To those of us who grew up in the old school it can be a bit disturbing that cybernetics might revolutionize the teaching profession; that computers are more and more taking over the duties of male and female alike. That is, if they're always fed the right information.

It was comforting to read a teacher's opinion that automation may train children, but can never teach them—that "the human schoolmaster" won't be scrapped in favor of the robot, the underlying reason being that the robot has no personality at all. He can relieve but of tedious and repetitious duties and aid a child in learning. A machine may train. It may even evaluate and judge, is one teacher's opinion. It can never teach.

Comforting too is a thought gleaned from an educator a few days ago to the effect that as machines become more complex and sophisticated, learning will extend farther and farther from the classroom. It will become more, rather than ever before a lifelong process.

To those of us who feel we haven't just been rusting away since school days, it is good to know that learning beyond the classroom will not become outdated. We, who remember with great warmth, admiration and respect, teachers we may have tried to emulate, are pleased that the rug won't be pulled out from under our way of thinking—at least not any time soon.

Twice Learned, Twice Forgotten

Writing in The American Legion Magazine Robert Angus tells a lamentable story of the declining American Merchant Marine. In the words of Mr. Angus, "The story of the adequacy of our merchant fleet and our shipbuilding industry to stand behind the implicit needs of our foreign policy isn't a simple tale, nor an especially reassuring one today. We're operating on a makeshift pattern that smells strongly of twice-learned lessons quickly forgotten."

Two world wars, say nothing of Korea and Viet Nam, have revealed the utter dependency of this country upon a first-rate Merchant Marine. Yet today, according to Mr. Angus, we have but 871 merchant ships—some 200 fewer than in 1939—flying the American flag.

When the Viet Nam buildup of 1965 began, ships were taken out of mothballs and rehabilitated to meet the emergency at a cost of $400,000 per ship. This contrasts with the $100,000 per ship returned to service from mothballs for use in Korea. As one spokesman said, the government didn't get any more for its $400,000 than for $100,000 in 1961, except a ship that was 15 years older. Shipbuilding skills are disappearing, and shipyards are closing down.

It had not been for an act of Congress in 1936, designed to assist American operators in meeting foreign shipping competition through the payment of differential subsidies, our Merchant Marine would have been in far worse straits than at present. The 1936 law is responsible for the building of 449 modern ships since the end of World War

II. But this is not enough to maintain the first-class Merchant Marine that Viet Nam has once again demonstrated this nation must have if the world sea lanes are to be kept open for American citizens.

Taxes & Politics

Partisan politics has raised its ugly head in Florida legislative debate, over an issue which had general bi-partisan agreement before the November elections—the need for property tax relief.

Senate President Verle Pope, who appointed a special committee on ad valorem taxation, urged that it determine the approximate share of the tax burden real estate should bear and write into a state constitutional proposal for consideration by the legislature.

The committee also was asked to consider strengthening the power of the state comptroller to enforce 100 per cent cash value property tax assessments, or set up a separate state agency to do the job.

But a Republican member of the committee, Sen. C. W. (Bill) Young, of Pinellas Park, had a different idea. He proposed a measure to curtail and limit spending by county commissions, school boards and other local agencies.

Counties are spending many hours studying how to spend and how to acquire, he said, instead of how to reduce and how to limit taxation.

Sen. Young has a point there, even though there may be insurmountable difficulties to regulating county activities at the state level. The various needs of the 67 counties and the various ability of the people of those counties to provide for such needs would seem to preclude blanket spending and taxing limitations. Such a proposal does not square with the trend toward more home rule for counties.

Even so, Sen. Pope's speculation that he made a mistake in appointing Republicans to the committee, and that Young's proposal was an attempt to "make political hay," seem uncalled for.

There may be just as many practical difficulties in the way of putting finite limits on property taxation, as suggested by Pope. In fact, unless other sources of county revenue—or state revenue to assist counties—could be found, the effect would be the same.

Certainly real estate taxes are becoming unbearable, and enforcement of full-cash value assessments has not lightened the burden. In some cases it has merely unleashed the forces which constantly press for more public spending. Percentage limitations on annual millage increases may slow down the process, but the end result is bound to be higher taxes.

Real estate's fair share of the tax burden already has been passed. Pope's special committee may come up with this startling conclusion. But if it is to accomplish anything constructive it will either have to point out how that burden may be shifted, or how to reduce the spending which generates the demand for higher taxes.

Floridians had the heaviest load of state and local taxes in the Southeast last year—a total of $1.4 billion, or $233 per resident. That ain't bad, political or otherwise.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Need For Objectivity On TV

As Americans look back over the November elections, they may find themselves considerably disturbed by the character of television reporting on election night. This reporting has caused much discussion.

Indeed there is much evidence to indicate that electronic journalism has a long way to go in matching the objectivity of printed journalism in the United States. In the November 8 television coverage, some candidates were declared winners while people were still going to the polls. The abundance of computer predictions, not all of them correct, proved confusing to the public.

Aside from the accuracy of the situation, many viewers felt that a number of television commentators displayed considerable personal bias in their comments on the returns. As usual, the conservative candidates took a beating from the commentators. Some commentators indicated by their words that they regard the election of conservatives as a dark day for the United States. Other commentators resorted to personal attacks on the candidates.

It is very unfortunate that news coverage on television cannot be strictly impartial. If a station wants to issue a biased editorial, it is free to do so in a comment frankly labeled an "editorial." But the networks should refrain from mixing news and opinion programs that are supposed to be objective news presentations.

This has been a problem for a number of years. The Southern States have taken an active part in the problem. In 20 years, the networks have a habit of showing Southern schools at their worst. In any part of the country, it is possible to find public officials who are deficient in grammar or personal style. Yet the networks seem to have a penchant for finding Southerners who make a bad appearance.

It is not just Southerners who have suffered from television coverage of the Viet Nam war almost seen resurgit to please Sen. J. W. Fulbright and other bleeding hearts. Many of the news programs on Viet Nam present American soldiers as brutal, and the hands of the communists aren't brought home in sufficient detail. The pro-communist Buddhist monks who set fire to themselves, were presented virtually as religious and national heroes, whereas in fact many were fanatics who had been doped.

This is not to say that many broadcasting executives do strive for objectivity. Individual station owners often are dissatisfied with the network news fare they must serve. Yet the station owner or manager has a hard time insisting on higher standards of objectivity. A handful of "big name" commentators have a free-wheeling rule, and ride their political hobby horses, or their place. Nor is it a question of balance coverage and liberals, for neither have never been welcomed on the networks. The result is that television news commentary has been a single outlook field. A good case can be made, however, that the networks have everything to gain and nothing to lose from eliminating political bias from video news. The liberal commentators have had great freedom to air their bias on broadcasts, but the public these days is too well educated to buy the liberal line whenever it is offered. Indeed, the abuse heaped on conservative public figures seems to have backfired. It did no good, for example, for liberal commentators to keep referring to Ronald Reagan, now governor-elect of California, as an actor. The voters of that state were not in a mood to dismiss an intelligent candidate simply because of the type of work he engaged in a decade or more ago. News sources in the U. S. are varied, and printed journalism gave the public the record of Mr. Reagan's views on public issues. Then the voters made up their minds. The American people, sophisticated in the ways of opinion-shaping, have developed a powerful resistance to liberal brainwashing, as the Nov. 8 elections made clear. If the brainwashing attempts are not eliminated in the near future, the results could be even greater gains for conservatives in 1968. Nevertheless, it is disturbing to see an important freedom—the freedom enjoyed by television broadcasters to report the news in the sense of responsibility. If printed journalism can maintain high standards of responsibility, the networks should be able to do the same thing. But the proof of the pudding will be the cutting of the liberal commentators who substitute opinion for news.

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says

Dear Mister Editor:

The feller at the country store Sunday night was general agree that it was the Government and not the grocery stores that was to blame for the sky high prices for food.

De Doolie put this item on the agenda when he brought along some figgers he cut out of one of his old lady's magazines. This piece said the price of sugar was the lowest it had been in 27 years, that the world wide surplus of sugar was 20 million tons or 40 billion pounds and was enough to give ever man, woman, child in the whole world a 12-pound bag and have some left over.

But in the United States, this piece reported, the price of sugar was more than twice as high as in any other country in the world. The poor housewife was paying anywhere from 7 to 12 cents a pound. This piece claimed the U. S. Department of Agriculture was to blame for the whole mess on account of a long standing policy of allowing just a limited amount of sugar to be brought into the country in an effort to stabilize world sugar prices. According to this piece, the Agriculture Department got up and said, "We'll let a extra 100,000 tons come into the country but it won't drop in the bucket."

Well, I purchased a handkerchief for mother, a pencil for father, and four sticks of candy for my brother and myself. I was so rich in my possessions that I often wonder, when one of my grandsons spends a dollar for something he wants, if he gets the thrill I did in my purchases.

When father completed his business, we went to the elevator where he had leave me a wagon with corn cobs. They were free, for hauling them in. He handed a quick fire in the stove.

Even Clem Webster, that general like evering he hears coming out of Washington, was agreed they was something bad wrong with the sugar situation. But Clem claimed the Democrats was as bad as the Republicans in these matters. He said he could not recall when he was President the Government was giving counties surplus sugar for corn cobs, cases and it cost more for the Government approved refrigerators and lockers than the food was worth.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was bad in need

"Robert King High Never Liked By The Majority Of Democrats"

By Rex Newman

ALLAHASSEE (AFN)—Miami Mayor Robert King High's claim to the throne as "titular head" of the Democratic Party is impractical. A twice defeated gubernatorial candidate—who has the dubious honor of being the first Democrat in 94 years to lose the governor's mansion to the opposition—can't command the political respect of professional Democrats.

Not only does he lack this abstract, he never was liked politically by the majority of professional Democrats. Whoever is to be the spokesman for the Democratic Party, which now finds itself referred to as "the other party" will have to be an elected official.

The leading contenders at this stage are the current State Tom Adams and Attorney General Earl Faircloth.

Neither is making a move. It's too early to tell which way the political wind is blowing and it probably will be the middle of 1967 when the form of Democratic leadership emerges.

There are those already in this state who are predicting "a disastrous year" for Democrats of Florida in 1968. None of the cabinet has to run but there is the U. S. Senate seat held by George Smathers up for grabs and half the senate and all of the house must run.

It would appear that Lyndon Johnson's popularity in Florida is nil and in the event Johnson decides not to seek reelection, the alternative of Hubert Humphrey and Bobby Kennedy would not enhance Florida Democrats' chances in this state.

Perhaps the man who has most at stake is former Governor LeRoy Collins who is a pirate to the U. S. Senate. Congressman Ed Gurney, Winter Park Republican, seems to have everything to lose for him.

Mrs. Lucille Rogers, private secretary for Governor Harris Bryant and Hayden Burns, who is up for Governor Claude Kirk.

Bryant and Burns administrative assistant Mal Odgin hasn't been invited yet to stay the opposition—only by the incoming governor.

Burns' legal aid Joe Chapman, already has been taken care of by his boss with the appointment as State Road Commissioner and a seat on the State Land Installation Board.

Frank Stockton, Burns' patronage aid, apparently will join the law firm of Greene Bryant and White Rights of the minority under Burns specialized in doing legal work for enumerable state agencies.

The Constitutional Revision Commission Convention has done some state political figures in unfamiliar positions.

Senator Jack Mathewson, Jacksonville, who is the state system of the past, now proclaims the virtues of the committee system and finds himself supporting a reapportionment theory which least fits the one man vote rule.

Former Senator Charlie Johns, a rural block ruler of the past, finds himself attacking the rural block system and advocating subdistricting for the legislature which most nearly fits the one man vote rule. In the past reapportionment session of the legislature Johns opposed the districting plan.

Also, Leon County Circuit Court Judge Hugh Taylor, a behind the scenes leader of the rural block, also attacks the committee system and supports the sub-districting movement.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

HERE'S A THING TO SLEEP ON IF YOU'RE RETIRED, AND SAYS

You are coming up to the moment of Christmas—the season of the tender heart. You are of the retirement age, and you feel more strongly than in your youth a want to do something meaningful for somebody.

If this is your dilemma, and if your heart grows tender, a retired engineer by the name of W. M. Broadman has come up with an idea.

He is launching you into the New Year with your banners flying.

The first thing I did, said Mr. Broadman, was to understand two basic mistakes the retired man. One is that he gets his pension and Social Security for keeps, and that can afford to be different, original, even eccentric to his own other in that, just maybe, in his status he has more sense about his fellowman than the professionals who lay out his charity guidelines.

With these two points firmly in mind, Mr. Broadman was searching for a private do-good cause that would be palatable with his 66-year-old intelligence. He found it in the waiting room of a local hospital.

I had been visiting a sick friend, and passed the waiting room about 9 P.M., he said. "It was a terrible sight. The people there were mostly from out in the state, many from farm. They had brought a child, a father, a sister—some loved one—for an operation that would be performed at 8 A.M. tomorrow."

They were crowded onto what sofas and chairs the hospital could afford them. They were ill at ease. All of them looked worried. They were too poor to go to a rooming house with Mr. Broadman as director ways to find a pillow to lay their worried on. They just sat there, and sleep if they could, and they waited out the night.

Mr. Broadman checked with the hospital staff, and the picture was about the same. The manager of a nearby hotel—a second-class but adequate—would be making a man to take in—say at 11 o'clock—two or three men who were coming back and would be staying in the hospital waiting room.

They followed a couple of weeks of discussions, with Mr. Broadman a finding mutual agreement. The manager of the hotel agreed to have the manager of the hotel. The manager of the hotel agreed to have the manager of the hotel.

I agreed to pay for two rooms per night for a period of three months, for just under $200," Mr. Broadman said. "I told the hospital staff, I picked the two most deserving families for the night and sent them to the hotel. Then I turned the whole thing over to my partner in order to make it an official charity project. I wasn't really looking for personal glory."

Mr. Broadman never paid over $100 on his commitment. The congregation became so interested in the uniqueness of this charity that it pledged funds to take over four rooms at the hotel on a per-man basis, with Mr. Broadman as director

BGHS Glee Club To Perform At Lutheran Church Dec. 14

The Belle Glade High School Glee Club will present a selection of Christmas Hymns and Carols at Saint Peter's Lutheran Church in Belle Glade on December 14 at 8 p. m.

These hymns and carols will coincide with the Christmas message as has been the custom in past years. This will be the third year the Glee Club has sang in the final Advent service at St. Peter's presenting the message "CHRISTMAS — 1966"

As in the past, the service will begin with the story of creation and the fall of mankind into sin. With the story of the Fall, the church will be plunged into darkness. The service is divided into seven parts, which comprise the promise of a Savior and the story of the Savior's birth. At the beginning of each part, two candles are lit, until finally at the end, the church is once again illumined symbolizing the birth of the "Light of the World."

During each part of the service, the Glee Club will sing an appropriate selection.

The Girls' Glee Club is under the direction of Mrs. Donald Filshie. The service will be conducted by Reverend Richard Roseman, pastor of St. Peter's. The congregation extends an invitation to all people of the community to come and worship the Christ Child in this final Advent service, and remain afterwards for a relationship hour.

Handel's Messiah by the Community Voices under the direction of Walter T. Locke will be presented Sunday, December 11, 1966 at the Roosevelt High School Gymnasium at 4:30 p. m. No admission will be charged.

The program is sponsored by the Department of Adult and Veteran Education, Palm Beach County Schools, with Paul L. Phillips Director.

Scotch 2-Ball Tournament Opens Sunday

A "shot gun start" is planned for the Scotch 2-Ball Tournament in which all golfers are invited to participate next Sunday at 12:30 on the Belle Glade Municipal Course.

Translated into language that most of us can understand that seems to mean that all players will start playing at the sound of a gun fired by an official starter. Obviously all players will not start from Tee Number 1. The play will be in teams of two, preferably one man and one woman. Each player has one ball from each tee, but after that, one of the two balls is selected with the players on the team alternately hitting the same ball until it drops into the cup.

Entry fee is $2.50 and Roy Kimberly invites those desiring to register to phone the club at 996-7281. Prizes will be given.

Following the tournament a buffet luncheon will be served — Adults $1.50 with children through 12 at $1.00.

Roy says you can eat without playing but not without paying and he will appreciate reservations made for the eating too.

B. G. Jaycees Will Play Here Friday Night

With a final score of 13-0, the Lake Worth Jaycees sponsored football team defeated the former state champion Belle Glade team, last Saturday night to become the new state champions.

The Belle Glade team was stopped cold in the first quarter, Dwight Ward, was disabled with a head injury and a fumble gave the ball to Lake Worth deep in Belle Glade territory. However, the tough Belle Glade defense held and the first quarter was scoreless. Late in the second quarter, Lake Worth again received a break when Jr. Meadows punt was blocked at the 8 yard line of Belle Glade. They drove in for the TD in 3 plays ending the half with a score of 6-0.

Field Events Sunday By Cycle Ass'n.

Eight events are scheduled by Glades Cycle Association at their Field Trials event this Sunday, December 11, which will be held in the Association's field just off Tabl Road.

R. L. Godsey, who is in charge of the event, said a line and on off tackle run was successful for the TD. They made the conversion kicking the final score of 13-0. Belle Glade took the final kick-off at the 20 after Lake Worth kicked into the end zone and drove to the Lake Worth 30 when the clock ran out.

A second game of the series will be played at Belle Glade high school field Friday night, December 9 at 8 p.m. Coach Bill Burke says that the team is not hurt too badly from injuries and that all but 2-3 of the team should see action Friday.

Increased emphasis will be placed on fly and mare racing on the grass at the Hialeah 1967 meetings. If the response is good, Hialeah will add a stake for the girls on the grass.

"Ouch! Turn My Nose Loose!"

Belle Glade dominated the play in the third quarter with Quarterback Bud Wilson, leading the team in a series of first downs that brought the team to first and goal on the Lake Worth 8 yard line, however 4 power plays into the tough Lake Worth defensive line failed to get the ball over the goal.

Late in the 4th quarter Lake Worth again was able to take advantage of a Belle Glade mistake when they took possession of the ball on the Belle Glade 30, due to a bad punt by Bud Wilson, going only 15 yards after the punter was badly rushed by the gigantic Lake Worth defense. Lake Worth went into score after a series of successful pass plays brought them to the 2 yard line and an off tackle run was successful for the TD. They made the conversion kicking the final score of 13-0. Belle Glade took the final kick-off at the 20 after Lake Worth kicked into the end zone and drove to the Lake Worth 30 when the clock ran out.

A second game of the series will be played at Belle Glade high school field Friday night, December 9 at 8 p.m. Coach Bill Burke says that the team is not hurt too badly from injuries and that all but 2-3 of the team should see action Friday.

Agriculture Provides More Jobs Than Any Other Industry In U.S.

GAINESVILLE — Because of widespread underemployment and poverty, agriculture is taking priority over industry in many developing countries of the world, an international renowned British economist reported.

With two-thirds of the world living in subsistence economy, the bias for industry is changing to a balance of agriculture and industry, Arthur Gaiskell said at a University of Florida seminar on economic development of tropical agriculture.

The recent swing to the importance of agriculture in economic development has come about, Gaiskell said, because many countries have found they can't solve the job situation by industrialization alone. They have found that they must improve the agricultural sector to provide jobs in the developing nations.

The complimentary advance of agriculture and industry is partly the way developed countries, such as the United States and England began, Gaiskell said.

Agriculture provides more jobs and careers than any other industry in the United States the former British civil servant who spent nearly 30 years with the Sudan Plantations Syndicate in the Gezira Scheme, said. After leaving the Sudan, Gaiskell was a member of the East African Royal Commission on Land and of the Council of Europe's Committee of Experts on the development of Africa.

He is currently a lecturer at the Economic Development Institute.

"We spend a lot of money on defense and on education. These expenditures to one ever questions. Isn't agriculture a part of the defense problem," Gaiskell asked.

The seminar was sponsored by the University's Center for Tropical Agriculture.

Dairy Steers Go For Kenaf

So you think you're a heavy eater. How about this? Scientists at the University of Florida recently started feeding kenaf silage to 700-pound dairy steers in experimental trials to check the crop as a possible livestock feed.

There's no question but that the animals go for kenaf in a big way. Each animal ate an average of 132 pounds of the silage during the testing period.

"I've never seen animals this size eat more feed," said Dr. James Wing, associate dairy husbandman with the state's Experiment Stations.

He explained that this year's crop has much better quality and a higher protein content than the crop grown last year. The kenaf was ensiled when six feet high and very leafy. The result is a high protein content, according to Dr. Wing.

Dr. Gordon Killinger, associate Stations agronomist, says the silage idea came about when it was found that the plant's leaves and their stalks were high in total nitrogen and ran more than 25 percent in crude protein.

The kenaf plant has been used for other things besides cattle feed. It has been called a "magic plant" by some because of its potential as a paper-pulp product.

Yarn and fabric have already been made from kenaf. Attractive articles of clothing made from the plant's parts have been blended with synthetic fibers like dacron.

PBC Winter Festival Named "Golden Palm Festival"

Palm Beach County's winter festival has been officially named. It is the "Golden Palm Festival."

The name was suggested by Fred Tevbaugh, a member of the Coronation Pageant Committee of the winter festival, some weeks ago. The festival committee liked the name but before adopting it, the committee wanted to get the reaction of the citizens of the community.

More than a dozen new names were suggested by interested citizens, however, the vast majority who expressed an opinion concerning the name liked Tevbaugh's suggestion — "Golden Palm."

"We appreciate the interest of the citizens from all over the county who sent in names for the festival," Judge Russell McIntosh festival chairman, said. "They were all good names, but we would be proud to have for the festival but we abided by the majority vote of the committee."

"It is hoped that everyone in Palm Beach County will help to make the Golden Palm Festival as great as the Gasparilla of Tampa or the Mardi Gras of New Orleans," he said.

$1.2 Million Mental Health Center Planned For PB County

Prominent citizens leaders interested in establishing a 1.2 million dollar Community Mental Health Center in Palm Beach County, joined with the Palm Beach Medical Society Wednesday night to discuss plans and goals for the construction of the center.

Dr. William Exerts, County Medical Society, Mental Health Chairman, told the professional and lay people gathered at the Mental Health headquarters in West Palm Beach that the planned structure will have a network of coordinated local Mental Health services.

The services, he said, will provide a full range of prompt and intensive care for the community disturbed. "The need for the center is vital... very vital," Dr. Exerts declared.

For the first time in Florida a new film entitled "Bold New Approach" was shown depicting the challenge that Mental Health represents in the United States.

Walter Machann, Executive Director of the Palm Beach County Mental Health Association said that influential leaders in the community are working hard to inform the community in general of the growing and vital need for a mental health center in the county.

Machann recognized, at the meeting the staffs of the Adult Psychiatric Clinic and the Child Guidance Center for their leadership in making known to the public the problems in the area of Mental Health.

He said the two organizations are taking an active part in the drive to establish a center in Palm Beach County.

Federal matching funds amounting to almost $600,000 have been earmarked for the construction of the Mental Health Center, Mr. Machann said, and the strong public support is needed... public support that will help (The Palm Beach Mental Health Association) to reach its goals in mental health.

"After all," said Mr. Machann, "Mental Health is America's number one health problem and we must face up to the challenge. We must help in every way possible, from a layman's standpoint and from a professional standpoint, to fight this critical problem in Palm Beach County."

Trophies Awarded At Banquet

Bryant Davis received the Most Valuable Player award last Thursday night at the annual father-son football banquet. This trophy was presented by Mr. "Bama" Mathis, who was representing Mr. George Scarborough. It is the oldest football trophy that Belle Glade High School awards. The Outstanding Back award was presented to Tommy Woods by Mr. Charles Cox. Mr. C. E. Crichfield presented the Outstanding Linebacker trophy to Larry Norman. Zane Miller received the Unsung Hero award from L. Nachman of the Palm Beach Post.

The banquet started at 7:30 and after Rev. Boland gave the grace, the J. V. cheerleaders began to serve the guests. The menu consisted of Grilled Leather (steak), Baked Potatoes, Green Shooting (green beans), Harvest Bowl (tossed salad), Goal Post Delight (oatmeal cake), Hot Helms and Taffin (hot rolls and butter), and Cleated Iced Tea and Coffee (iced tea and coffee).

Mr. Dick Hodges, president of the Athletic Council, opened the program with a welcoming speech. Then Coach Bill Burke recognized the guest speaker, Coach Dave Fuller, from the University of Florida. Mr. Fuller spoke on the prospects of an athletic scholarship and what it takes to make an outstanding athlete.

The 1966 lettermen then received their letters and the second year lettermen received their jackets from Coach Burke. The Senior lettermen were Mickey McGeehee, Tommy Woods, Danny Davis, Ronnie Gerry, Joe Ortiz, Pat Bowen,

SAYS EWE

Gloria C., who is the "Mon key" you like now? Do you always hide behind the book-cases in the library?

Gail D., who has the sudden interest in black Corvairs?

I understand there is a run on pinks lately! It seems that Barbara W. helped matters with her green make marker while Doris W., gave her assistance.

Barbara W. helped matters with that "any" truck left the tennis court sooner than expected!

Sue A., why were you so anxious to find a white Valentine Tuesday night? What's it from Clewiston?

Lois C., why so many frequent trips to Pahokee? Could it be because of a certain male?

Linda L., I hear that you are back in circulation. Is it true that you have broken off your relationship with "Georgia"?

Danny D., what was this about phony all night long night? Could it be that your phone was out of order?

Debbie U., who broke your fishing line? Who are you fishing for now?

Joan T., how are Francis and you getting along? Tell me you're jealous about Cheryl?

The S. K. gang, who were you going to Miami Beach to see last weekend?

TEACHER OF THE WEEK

Mrs. Wejbe

Mrs. Olga Wejbe came to the U. S. in 1958 from Cuba and began working on her Master's Degree at the University of Florida. After graduation she taught at a local school in Gainesville. She then came to B. G. and is presently teaching chemistry, biology, physics, and at night school, adult Spanish.

Before coming to U. S., she graduated from the Colegio Beldor as a BACHILLER EN CIENCIAS in 1945. This is similar to our high school. After this she entered the University of Havana. Here she gained her degree as a pharmacist. After establishing her own drug store she finished her graduated work. Also during her career she has been a private tutor for students studying science. In 1959 she enrolled in Catholic University de Villanova as a special grade student. She was a professor at the University of Havana until the Cuban Revolution. The Communist gained control. After going into exile, she came to the U. S. Mrs. Wejbe was chosen one of the week because of her outstanding ability in science. She enjoys being near the students and helping them.

THE BROKEN GLASS IN OUR STREETS

Our streets are constantly and continuously strewn with crushed glass from drink bottles carelessly thrown out of can by unthinking people.

There is nothing sharper to cut than and bare feet than broken glass from bottles. Where is the civic pride that we allow our streets to serve as a garbage dump for these? Can't we teach our drink consumers better manners? Do they litter their homes with the same? Could we remind our careless drinkers that LITTER is not attractive and can be very hazardous? Also, that ALL drink companies want bottles returned.

Our beautification program begins with each of us, let's do something about it! Some communities resort to FINES for offenses like this against its citizenship. Why not?

Rev. Watkins Speaks

The Rev. Forrest H. Watkins, a Baptist minister from Stuart, was the guest speaker at a DCT assembly last Wednesday. The DCT members heard him speak at their convention in Stuart last month and were so impressed that they invited him to speak to the student body here. Rev. Watkins told a number of humorous stories and played several piano renditions of Alexander's "Ragtime Band." He spoke very informally but directly to the students concerning the part each individual contributes during his life. The topic of his talk was "To Be Or Not To Be: Rev. Watkins held the attention of the students because of the excellent manner in which he presented his talk.

The Beta Club announces the sale of SCHOOL RECORDS, a unique book for keeping children's school photo graphs, report cards, and other treasured keepsakes of the school year.

This handy book completely eliminates the mess and clutter of clippings and photographs scattered throughout numerous desk drawers. All information can be neatly filed in the envelopes for each school year. SCHOOL RECORDS contains 13 pages with envelopes to hold every school record from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Space is provided for teacher's name, awards received, and medical records.

Every parent will want a copy for each child in school for children who have already finished school. SCHOOL RECORDS provides a permanent record-keeping system.

Members of the Beta Club will be calling on homes in this area in the next few days. Profits from the sale will be used to send ten delegates to State Convention and for a yearly project in benefit of the school.

This valuable book sells for only $1.00. To reserve a copy contact Mrs. J. Lanier at 996-7246. A prize will be awarded to the member that sells the most booklets.

A Note from "The Inside Story Of The Coaches" The Editor

Please do not feel that I have not noticed the functions of the Student Council. I did not mention this in my last column last week because it was self-explanatory. I merely questioned certain important items that I feel is the obligation of the council.

My humble apology to the members of the Student Council organization including the sponsor for not paying tribute to them for what they have been doing. What you have done, was well done.

But what about the following questions:

1. Why haven't there been dances after football games?
2. Why haven't there been night time activities to help keep the students off the streets?
3. What happened to the reports that are supposed to be given to each homeroom after a meeting of the student council?
4. Why aren't there more news from the council?

Let's continue to work together, only in union, for a better school and a better Belle Glade.

A Special Note From The Spanish Club

The Spanish Club of Lake Shore Jr.-Sr. High School wishes to announce the sale of chocolate "Polvorones" that may be purchased from members of the club, and sponsor, Senora Miller.

Funds, raised by the candy sale and regular dues (25¢ monthly) will be used through out the year for:

1. Materials for programs.
2. Costumes to remain at the school.
3. Aid to students desiring — but unable to afford field trips and special shows.

The Spanish Club at present has a membership of 26 students — so it seems surprising that Joe Sheely, editor of the Bobcat Page and reporters have not seen or heard of the candy sale. His name is mentioned because in the December 1, issue of the Bobcat Page, he attacks the Spanish Club as a non-functioning organization.

JEROME WILFORD

"Senior Of The Week"

We have chosen Jerome Wilford as Senior of the week. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Wilford of 1308 S.W. Ave. "C" Place. Jerome is a native of Belle Glade, born September 15, 1949.

Jerome entered Lake Shore High School in 7th grade and has maintained a "B" average from 9th grade up until now. He is a member of the Lake Shore High Marching Band, yearbook staff, student council and newspaper staff. Jerome also made the highest score on the Senior Examination.

Mildred Johnson

Head coach of the Football and Basketball team and also the Athletic Director, Willie Irvin was born in St. Augustine, Fla. He later attended Executive High School. The beginning of his career started in the 5th grade, when he decided to tackle sports. All through high school he did a very fine job of holding the position of end, tackle and fullback.

As soon as high school days were over, he entered Florida A&M University at Tallahassee, Florida, and decided to major in Physical Education. His football coach was very proud of the outstanding work that he did in holding the position of end and defensive halfback. This fine athlete was named All American in 1952.

In 1953, he signed a contract with the Philadelphia Eagles, where he remained until 1957 when he suffered a severe knee injury.

Line Coach, Charles Demson, was born in Tallahassee, Florida, and attended Florida Memorial University, Tallahassee, Florida. He graduated from high school in 1943 he entered Florida Normal Industrial College where he upheld the position of tackle on the football team. After being named first all conference three consecutive years, his brilliant performance was interrupted by the armed forces. After leaving the army he entered Bethune-Cookman College and majored in Physical Education and minored in Health. In 1964, he joined the Lake Shore Faculty and became a loyal "BOBCAT."

Line Coach, Oliver Davis, was born in Cordale, Georgia. Later he moved to Belle Glade where he attended Everglades Vocational High. Coach Davis was the first player at Lake Shore to make all conference in football and all state player in basketball. Later he entered A&T in North Carolina, where he stayed for one year and decided to enroll at Florida A&M.

He majored in Physical Education and Driver Education. After finishing college, he became Athletic Director and head coach at East Lake High, Pahokee, Florida, in 1956. In 1966, he joined the Lake Shore Faculty coaching staff.

Back Coach, Alphonso Verzen, was born in Ocala, Florida. After finishing high school he received an Athletic scholarship to Florida A&M. During his first year he was selected as outstanding Freshman. In 1957, he was named as the most valuable player in the classic. After leaving Florida A&M in 1958 he played with the Los Angeles Rams, where his position was defensive end and fullback. In 1958, he joined the faculty at Lake Shore where he coached for six years. At the beginning of the 1964 school year, he joined the faculty at Lake Shore as coach.

So there you have the inside story of our coaches.

Kampus Highlights

The D. C. T. Talent Show has been postponed again. Isn't this show ever going to get on the road?

I was wondering why all the Seniors have those lost expressions. Now I know, the senior Test Scores are back . . .

A friend of mine, Willie Nelson, told me that he saw Charles Haynes on television while he was vacationing in San Francisco, California.

The Yearbook Staff under the direction of Mrs. E. S. Peete seems to be on the ball. The students of the Food and Nutrition classes are experimenting with yeast breads; and I do mean experimenting . . .

Is there really going to be a Senior Chorus? With all those melodies voices it shouldn't be too difficult . . .

Boy, this weather sure is surprising. Don't let it get you down though . . .

Could you believe that another six weeks has ended? . . .

On Tuesday night November 27, 1966, investiture and rededication ceremony was held for the Senior Girl Scouts. A chance to show off their suits. So long! See you next week . . .

The Yearbook Staff Reports

The yearbook staff has found that producing Lake Shore's yearbook is indeed a hard working affair. Each member has carried out his duties profoundly and with good spirit. Our intention and aim is to produce a really superb yearbook.

With the support of our student body, administrative staff, faculty and the community, we shall continue to strive to produce the best "BOBCAT" yet.
